In addition to the usual tournament, this week Pinochle and Euchre contests were held. Jeanne Morrow and Mabel Barnard won the Pinochle loving cup, while Ray Terrell and Val Smith took the Euchre championship. Mike Lucyk scored 36 for the Goff trophy. Other tournaments and winners were as follows: Ray Terrell and Clare Ridsdale, Senior Horseshoe Doubles; the Swansons — Senior Badminton; John and Merilees Ridsdale — Senior Tennis Doubles; Sophia Lucyk — Cribbage; The Terrells — Bridge; Mabel Barnard — Canasta; Bill Paris — Men's Ping Pong; Joan Terrell — Women's Ping Pong; Harold Swanson — Senior Checkers.

The 6 to 8 year old group held a relay in which they ran with a book on their head. Gordon Ridsdale's team of John Emerson, Kenneth Wallis, Tommy Koselka and Potty Cote beat Stuart Kelch's team of Mary Kelch, Billy Cote and Leonard Wallis. Leonard also won the running backwards race. Ken Wallis and Gordon Ridsdale won the three-legged race. Gordon Ridsdale, Chuck Ongena and John Emerson were

Three Acter Has Audience Appeal

INVERHURON — Tournament competition this week was so keen that by Thursday, there was neither time nor energy for the preparation of skits. There were rumours of several inspired ideas for skits, but none of them materialized, with the exception of a three-act play. This spectacle, entitled "Roy Rogers Meets Death," opened with a narrative. Scene 1 took place in a bar, deep in the West. Scene 2 was on a trail by a cliff. The third scene was "meanwhile, back at the bar." Actors and industrious stage hands for the production were Len and Ken Wallis, Mike Morrow and Gordon Ridsdale.

By special request, there was some square dancing later in the evening.

MYSTERY OF THE DISAPPEARING T.R.

What does T.R. stand for? Guess! They were last seen about then, and they have been lost since then. We think we had four of them at the beginning of July, but we are left with only two now. This causes quite a bit of confusion in tournament doubles in t-----, as it is a little awkward for four people to use just two t----- r-----, Know now? Any clues to this mystery would be welcome. Thank you.

winners of a "croquet-ball-pushing" contest. The adults held a similar relay, and the team of husbands won it. This same team also won the cup-and-saucer relay.

Square dancing was enjoyed by all in the Rec Hall after the contests.

TRYING FOR NEW ACCIDENT RECORD

The staff, not to be outdone by the guests, is participating in a tournament of its own. In the kitchen, Ruth Steer is ahead, at the moment, with two stiches in the palm of her left hand, thanks to a potato which suddenly disappeared. Mrs. Parry is second, with a gashed little finger she received while trying to operate on the unco-operative hind legs of a lamb. Phyllis Helen Smith is in third place with a mangled thumb, the price she payed for trying to cut her own in the dark one night. Shirley Moore is last in the running with a sliced finger she suffered while slicing cheese for the guests in the dining room. Gale Bassett's efforts at water skiing rewarded her with a large bruise of a beautiful purple and orange hue, covering her left thigh. Hobbling up in the rear we see Marge Fritz, with a sprained ankle and scraped finger — how, we'll never reveal! So, sign up and join the "Torture Tournament!" Who's next?

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION HAPPY EVENT

Chuckie Nauman celebrated his fifth birthday on Thursday, July 25. A delicious angle food cake with a clown decoration was presented to him, carried into the dining room by his waitress, Helen Smith. All the waitresses sang happy birthday to the delighted Chuckie, and Mr. Martin, the on-the-spot photographer of the Lime Kiln, snapped a picture of the group. Chuckie later shared the cake with the other children in the room.
